

Review Discord

Discord, Inc.

Discord allows you to organize all your favorite communities and social groups in an easy, simple and orderly way. It works on mobile phones and computers. With a friendly interface you will be able to carry out multiple audio or video communications. The service is free and offers paid membership with extra features

We are in the age of communication. Keeping in touch with our friends, work environments or people with similar tastes is one of the main tasks that we look for in the catalog of games and applications. Among the wide variety of options available we find Discord, one of the most useful, versatile and fast platforms on the market.

Discord can be downloaded to mobile phones or used on computers with Mac or Microsoft operating systems. The site is a great platform that facilitates and allows communication. Its highest point is the possibility of generating large voice channels among many people. It also has a comfortable interface to separate each group by interest and theme. Each user, who can enter by just providing an email, will have the possibility to configure a server that is accessed by invitation. In addition to voice communication, it can also be carried out with video.

Discord's emergence was due to the need for creators Jason Citron and Stan Vishnevskiy to share their experience while playing video games. The young people realized that they needed a place where they could gather all the communities of their favorite titles to be able to exchange information, moments and talks. In this way, Discord was born in 2015 and today it is not only one of the favorite platforms of gamers but it is used by all kinds of social groups to interact with each other.

Another advantage of Discord is that with video communication we can share screens with our friends. This tool offers us the chance to broadcast live a game of our favorite game, a class or a presentation. Furthermore, the interface is very easy to use and allows both moderators and group members to organize their experience in the best way. You can assign moderator roles or give people prizes for their participations. Discord also has a good number of emoticons so that the talks are not boring. The server and its code are partially available which means that it offers a wide variety of customization possibilities.

For those users who use the application a lot, it is possible to get an account with premium features. Discord Nitro offers two types of subscriptions, you can pay $ 9.99 per month or $ 99.99 per year. With this membership it is possible to significantly improve the experience by having a greater number of emojis, a greater storage limit and more functions to organize the servers. It enables you to put on an animated avatar, a server upgrade and stream videos in the highest possible quality.

If we only want to obtain advantages in the chat service, it is possible to contract Discord Nitro Classic. It is the same service but without the advances in the server. The price is $ 4.99 monthly and 49.99 annually.

When using Discord we will have a very advanced experience in a tool that, as we mentioned before, offers many possibilities for configuration and interaction with other programs. For example, if we have video games on our computer, Discord detects them and allows us to start them from its Library option platform. You can also work alongside Xbox Libe, Battle.net, Facebook, Reedit or Twitch.

If you wonder how to use Discord it is really simple and you will not have any type of problem to feel like it within a few minutes. If you are a member of a community, you just have to follow the link they send you to join the group. On your left you will have the available channels and you will be able to see what is being talked about in each one. In fact, Discord will show you what messages you have unread in each of them. In the event that we want to search for friends, we only have to press the button that says Friends and hit where it says Add Friends.

Discord is a communication tool. Its main advantages are its non-complex interface and the large number of interaction possibilities that it allows, both with other platforms and with programs that can be added together so that the app has more advantages. If you want to communicate with the community of your favorite hobbies, Discord is without a doubt the best option.

Pros	Cons
- Is free. - Very good communication channels. - Easy to use. - Possibility of configuring bots. - Quality integration with other platforms, apps and tools.	- The process of finding friends is not easy. - The username is visible all the time. - The server may crash. - The mobile app could be improved.
