

Review Plenty of Fish (POF)

Plentyoffish Media ULC

Plenty of Fish is one of the oldest and safest free online dating apps. With more than 90 million users worldwide, it bases its success on affinity connections between different profiles and most users seek a long-term relationship

The world of dating has undergone a revolution with new technologies, this can be seen in the number of applications that help you discover your ideal partner. This is the case of Plenty of Fish, also known as POF, a website where you can find your appointment online and in which it combines all the most interesting functions of the moment from other websites and apps on its platform.

It is more used in the United States and Canada, but little by little it is making a hole in other countries, managing to spread and gain strength, exceeding 700,000 searches only in Spain. It currently has more than 90 million users around the world, making it one of the most popular dating apps. Founded by Markus Frind in 2003, in less than a year it already had several million members and since then its growth has not stopped, with more than 3 million connecting daily.

The Plenty of Fish application is completely free, it is in five languages: Spanish, English, French, Portuguese and German and you can download it for free in the main virtual stores, Google Play Store and App Store, and you have it available for Android devices and iOS.

Although you can use most of its tools for free, it also has a Premium version in which you will find many more functions and that are only available to these paid users. Plenty of Fish is among the most affordable platforms, with a price list that varies according to time, you can find this version from € 38.70 for two months of subscription.

It is one of the only dating platforms that ask its members for total sincerity when defining what type of relationship they are looking for, in this way it is ensured that each of the parties agree and not misunderstand. Users can choose between different options, such as friendship, a long-term relationship or even looking for your better half for marriage. Most of those who use this app are looking for a long-term relationship, although they are not the only ones, there are people looking for any type of relationship.

With a very intuitive and easy-to-use interface, you can search for your appointment in three ways. The first is the basic one, introducing some characteristics about the type of people you want to meet. The second option is the advanced one, where they will include the previous information and you will be able to include other details of their personality and physique and finally, you can search for a specific person, adding their username. In this way, all those who share that name will appear and it will be easier to find that person.

Its search tool is very personalized, you can include any details that you consider relevant for the perfect person. The same as the profile of each one. Complete it with great detail, you never know what the rest of the members of this community are looking for, so it is important that they know you well. This helps increase your chances of having a successful date. Their registration questionnaires are extensive for this very reason and although it may seem like a nuisance, it is very important to answer honestly. It is Plenty of Fish's way of optimizing the suggestions of those profiles that are supported.

The Plenty of Fish application is totally secure, with all the journey that it has taken since its inception, it has managed to gain the trust of its users when it comes to security and privacy, developing more and more ways to keep data safe. This is one of the reasons why it uses very little other social networks to integrate, it does not collect information from your profile in these or your friends list, it only uses it so that you can easily upload photos to your account.

The pairings that arise through this application are based on the compatibility of the profiles, with its own tool, the Pair Chemistry Predictor. With this you will express your opinion on different topics which will help Plenty of Fish to find the best connections according to your interests, with people who have a similar thought. In addition, you can also participate in their forums, where they have moderators who make sure that they are safe and do not violate the rules.
