

Review Reface

Neocortex

The dream of becoming a star is fulfilled with Reface, one of the most popular apps in the virtual stores of Android and iOS. The tool that was previously known as Doublicat now changes its name and improves all its functions. Take a selfie and transform your body

The advancement of technology gave us many opportunities. The wide range of games and applications offers endless experiences. Users have access to all kinds of entertainment, tools, platforms and social networks. In recent times we have seen applications that work with the idea of ??deepfake go viral. That is, altered images or videos that are very real and give the feeling of being true even though they are not. We have all been in WhatsApp groups in which images with altered faces began to circulate, being older or changing gender.

Doublicat worked in this line, the program that allowed us to insert faces in GIFS or videos and which is now being renewed with a name change and more and better functions. Reface is today the most prominent free app to produce the best animations with your face.

The tool developed by Neocortex will allow you, just by taking a selfie, to introduce your features into the bodies of your favorite characters. Not only that, but one of the advantages of Reface is that once you produce the video or GIF, it gives you the option to share it quickly and easily on Facebook, Instagram or Twitter.

The tool to generate your funniest videos is part of the free Android and iOS applications. But keep in mind that if you download this version you will have to tolerate the presence of advertisements and the generation of GIFS will have intervals. That is, you can do one every 20-30 minutes. If we don't want to wait or see commercials, there are two types of subscriptions available. There is an annual one for 24.99 euros (with three days of free trial) and one per week for 2.99 euros (without free days to test).

Using Reface on mobiles is really very simple. You will have no problem creating your funniest videos in a matter of seconds. Once you download the app and make a user, the program will ask you to take a selfie. By having the close-up of your face, it will offer you a variety of videos in which you can put your face replacing that of the artist or actor. The available options are many, you can be part of famous movies like Titanic, change the face of an actor or actress and appear in their most popular works, be a singer like Bille Elish or dance to the rhythm of the Colombian musical artist Shakira. It also includes the possibility of being part of the most watched series such as Game of Thrones. Although it does not have an option to search by name for the video or GIF in which we want to insert our face, it is possible to filter by categories to make the search easier.

The Neocortex tool allows you to save more than one image to use in the files, before superimposing the face on the video it will ask you which of the photos you want to use. The results are processed very quickly and the quality of what is produced is very good. Of course, many times it depends on the quality of the self-portrait that we have taken and how much we adjust to the body of the actress, singer or actor.

As is often the case in these types of applications that use very sensitive user information such as their face and personal data, the security of the tool is questioned by some sectors. However, when we start Reface, the legal contract that the company in charge of the program presents, makes the clarification that only our images will be applied in their program. Beyond this statement, it is important to read the document before installing the app.

Reface is a very fun and original tool. The quality of the animations it produces is good and fast. Although the paid version is better, if we have a little patience we can have fun without problems with the free alternative. There are many options to choose where to introduce our face, everyone will find an artist or singer that they like. The only point to consider, as we mentioned earlier, is the security of the platform. Nothing that cannot be solved with a careful reading of the terms of bases and conditions before moving on to the fun.
