

Review Uber

Uber Technologies Inc.

Uber is an American company that offers users a free platform where passengers can choose their drivers and check the price of the trip in the app. All drivers use their own cars, and Uber doesn't actually own a vehicle. In the application, both the passenger and the drivers can rate the experience based on the quality of the trip

Uber is a practical platform that connects users with associated drivers, users who want to move from one place to another at affordable prices.

Uber's goal is to bring to cities a new, simple, safe and convenient mobility alternative, all through a smartphone app, available for free in the app stores for iPhone / iOS, Android and Windows Phone.

The creation of the Uber user account is also free. When you open your application, it confirms the location where you want to call the vehicle, default with access to the phone's GPS. You can also estimate the cost of the trip before calling the vehicle.

When you call the vehicle, you have access to the driver's name and photograph, as well as the vehicle's make and registration, while watching the driver reach you in real time. The user can enter their destination in the application, which shows them the fastest way to get there and allows them to share the route in real time with friends and family, ensuring that they arrive safely at their final destination.

When the trip is over, simply leave the vehicle: payment is automatic and electronic, through the bank card registered in the application, which makes the experience not only more convenient, but also more secure and transparent. At the end of the trip, the user has access to an email with all the details, and an electronic invoice detailing the value of the trip and the VAT paid. All trips are evaluated by users, which guarantees a high quality of service.

Uber is a practical platform that connects users with associated drivers, users who want to get from one place to another at affordable prices. Today, Uber is something of an innovative and independent taxi company that deals with drivers who share their own vehicles. Through the application you can choose a destination, check the price and choose from the available drivers. Also, you can find other people to share the destination with them.

Uber is one of the most successful startups in the past 10 years. The start of this company was established more than 10 years ago in 2009 by the two innovators Garek Kemp and Travis Kalanik, although it is considered to be in early 2011. Initially, Uber is a luxury car service that can be ordered through of the application. As a result, his idea grows to something much bigger by mentioning just Uber Foods. Your key to success is convenient. And it gives something for everyone, this includes tons only for all passengers around the world, but I help many Uber drivers to generate some money to earn a living.

Download Uber , open the app and choose the ride: standard, luxury or whatever you want. Then you rate the driver and they rate you. A four-star is the worst experience of your life. And five stars, from almost everything to absolutely incredible. Uber has its way of calculating the price based on many factors, such as the mileage rate, speed, cost of living of the city, which in other words means that it is not a fixed price for everyone.

Uber is simply a platform that connects passengers with drivers, who decide when to work, what to wear, etc. On the other hand, Uber controls prices. Unlike staying in the taxi and watching the counter drive up in price, Uber riders will know the cost of their ride ahead of time.

You can also try Uber Pool, which can come in handy if you want to go and share a long distance ride with some friends or even strangers, compared to using public transport is almost the same, because when you use public transport, share some space with strangers too. Not only this, but if you have a large group of people and let's say you need a bigger vehicle, this may also be one of your preferences. You can take advantage of some advantages to promote the Uber app to your friends and family using your referral code, and of course you can try to drive if they have a vehicle.

If you are looking for other benefits of why you should do this, just about the amount of unplanned things that can happen to you using the app. You can make a real friendship with drivers sometimes.

Pros	Cons
